

The Pennsylvania State University
The Graduate School
College of Engineering

THESIS TITLE

A Dissertation in
Your Department Name
by
Your Name

© 2013 Your Name

Submitted in Partial Fulfillment of the Requirements for the Degree of

Doctor of Philosophy

May 2013

The dissertation of Your Name was reviewed and approved* by the following:

Joseph H. Blow
Professor of SomeThing
Thesis Advisor, Chair of Committee

Reader Name
Professor of SomeThing
Optional Title Here

Reader Name
Professor of SomeThing
Optional Title Here

Reader Name
Professor of SomeThing
Optional Title Here

Reader Name
Professor of SomeThing
Optional Title Here

*Signatures are on file in the Graduate School.

Abstract

Table of Contents

List of Figures	vi
List of Tables	vii
List of Symbols	viii
Acknowledgments	ix
Chapter 1
Declaration of Independence with a Really Long Title to See How it Looks When Really Long	2
1.1 Modeling Techniques for Nonlinear Wave Propagation . . . . .	2
1.1.1 This is a Subsection . . . . .	2
1.1.1.1 This is a Subsubsection . . . . .	3
1.2 More Declaration . . . . .	3
Chapter 2
Title of the Second Chapter	5
2.1 Introduction . . . . .	5
2.2 More Declaration . . . . .	5
Chapter 3
Title of the Third Chapter	7
3.1 Introduction . . . . .	7
3.2 More Declaration . . . . .	7
Chapter 4
Title of the Fourth Chapter	9
4.1 Introduction . . . . .	9
4.2 More Declaration . . . . .	9
4.2.1 Some nonsense here . . . . .	10

4.2.2	Some additional nonsense here . . . . .	10
Chapter 5
	Title of the Fifth Chapter	11
5.1	Introduction . . . . .	11
5.2	More Declaration . . . . .	11
Appendix
	Title of the First Appendix	13
1	Introduction . . . . .	13
2	More Declaration . . . . .	13
2.1	Some Subsection Title Here . . . . .	13
Bibliography		15

List of Figures

1.1	CaptionText. . . . .	3
-----	----------------------	---

List of Tables

List of Symbols

- $\alpha$  The first greek letter, p. ??
- $\alpha$  The first greek letter, p. ??
- $\alpha$  The first greek letter, but we should really add some more text, though we need it to go on two lines, p. ??
- $\alpha$  The first greek letter, p. ??
- $\alpha$  The first greek letter, p. ??
- $\alpha$  The first greek letter, p. ??
- $\alpha$  The first greek letter, p. ??
- $\alpha$  The first greek letter, p. ??

Acknowledgments

Dedication

Chapter 1 | Declaration of Independence with a Really Long Title to See How it Looks When Really Long

1.1 Modeling Techniques for Nonlinear Wave Propagation

Pestorius [200] developed an algorithm to investigate propagation of finite-amplitude noise in pipes. His algorithm, based on weak shock theory, includes the effects of nonlinearity and tube wall boundary layer attenuation and dispersion. The hybrid time-frequency domain algorithm applies nonlinearity in the time domain, applies a fast Fourier transform (FFT), and then applies attenuation and dispersion in the frequency domain. Then an inverse FFT is taken to return to the time domain to propagate to the next step.

1.1.1 This is a Subsection

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. –That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, –That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. [2–22]

Figure 1.1. CaptionText.

1.1.1.1 This is a Subsubsection

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. –That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, –That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed.

1.2 More Declaration

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. –That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, –That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness.

Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. —Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain [George III] is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

Chapter 2 |

Title of the Second Chapter

2.1 Introduction

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

2.2 More Declaration

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. —That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, —That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces

a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. —Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government.

$$x = y \tag{2.1}$$

The history of the present King of Great Britain [George III] is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

Chapter 3 |

Title of the Third Chapter

3.1 Introduction

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

3.2 More Declaration

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. —That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, —That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces

a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. —Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain [George III] is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

Chapter 4 |

Title of the Fourth Chapter

4.1 Introduction

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

4.2 More Declaration

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. —That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, —That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed.

4.2.1 Some nonsense here

But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. —Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government.

4.2.2 Some additional nonsense here

The history of the present King of Great Britain [George III] is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

Chapter 5 |

Title of the Fifth Chapter

5.1 Introduction

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

5.2 More Declaration

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. —That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, —That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces

a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. —Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain [George III] is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

Appendix A |

Title of the First Appendix

A.1 Introduction

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

A.2 More Declaration

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. —That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, —That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness.

A.2.1 Some Subsection Title Here

Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. —Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain [George III] is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

Appendix B |

Title of the Second Appendix

B.1 Introduction

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

B.2 More Declaration

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. —That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, —That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces

a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. —Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain [George III] is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

Appendix C |

Title of the Third Appendix

C.1 Introduction

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

C.2 More Declaration

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. —That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, —That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces

a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. —Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain [George III] is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

Appendix D |

Title of the Fourth Appendix

D.1 Introduction

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

D.2 More Declaration

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. —That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, —That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces

a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. —Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain [George III] is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

Bibliography

- [1] MELNIKOV, V. K. (1963) “On the Stability of the Center for Time-Periodic Perturbations,” Transactions of the Moscow Mathematical Society, 12, pp. 1–56.
- [2] DAVIES, M. A. and F. C. MOON (1993) “3-D Spatial Chaos in the Elastica and the Spinning Top: Kirchhoff Analogy,” Chaos, 3(1), pp. 93–99.
- [3] TONKIN, S. W. (1980) “A Basic Attitude Instability of Spacecraft with Imperfect Momentum Wheels,” Automatica, 16, pp. 415–418.
- [4] MATSUMOTO, T. (1984) “A Chaotic Attractor from Chua’s Circuit,” IEEE Transactions on Circuits and Systems, CAS-31(12), pp. 1055–1058.
- [5] MACKAY, R. S. (1988) “A Criterion for Non-Existence of Invariant Tori for Hamiltonian Systems,” in Conference on Nonlinear Dynamics (G. Turchetti, ed.), World Scientific, Bologna, Italy, pp. 44–56.
- [6] FREUND, L. B. and W. D. NIX (1996) “A Critical Thickness Condition for a Strained Compliant Substrate/Epitaxial Film System,” Applied Physics Letters, 69(2), pp. 173–175.
- [7] MARSDEN, J. and P. J. HOLMES (1979) “A Horseshoe in the Dynamics of a Forced Beam,” in International Conference on Nonlinear Dynamics (R. H. G. Helleman, ed.), vol. 357, Annals of the New York Academy of Sciences, New York, pp. 313–321.
- [8] KOILLER, J. (1984) “A Mechanical System with a “Wild” Horseshoe,” Journal of Mathematics and Physics, 25(5), pp. 1599–1604.
- [9] TSOTRAS, P. and J. M. LONGUSKI (1995) “A New Parameterization of the Attitude Kinematics,” The Journal of the Astronautical Sciences, 43(3), pp. 243–262.
- [10] SHIMADA, I. and T. NAGASHIMA (1979) “A Numerical Approach to Ergodic Problem of Dissipative Dynamical Systems,” Progress of Theoretical Physics, 61(6), pp. 1605–1616.

- [11] SMITH, P. and N. M. DAVENPORT (1988) “A Perturbation Method for Saddle Connections and Homoclinic Bifurcation in Duffing’s Equation,” Dynamics and Stability of Systems, 2(4), pp. 167–182.
- [12] KETEMA, Y. (1992) “A Physical Interpretation of Melnikov’s Method,” International Journal of Bifurcation and Chaos, 2(1), pp. 1–9.
- [13] GRAESSER, E. J. and F. A. COZZARELLI (1994) “A Proposed Three-Dimensional Constitutive Model for Shape Memory Alloys,” Journal of Intelligent Material Systems and Structures, 5, pp. 78–89.
- [14] RICHARDSON, D. L. and J. W. MITCHELL (1999) “A Simplified Variation of Parameters Approach to Euler’s Equations,” Journal of Applied Mechanics, 66, pp. 273–276.
- [15] MITCHELL, J. W. and D. L. RICHARDSON (1999) “A Simplified Variation of Parameters Solution for the Motion of an Arbitrarily-Torqued Asymmetric Rigid Body,” in AAS/AIAA Astrodynamics Specialist Conference, Girdwood, Alaska.
- [16] PARKS, P. C. (1967) “A Stability Criterion for a Panel Flutter Problem via the Second Method of Liapunov,” in Differential Equations and Dynamical Systems (J. K. Hale and J. P. Lasalle, eds.), University of Puerto Rico, pp. 287–298.
- [17] HSU, C. S. and T. H. LEE (1971) “A Stability Study of Continuous Systems under Parametric Excitation via Liapunov’s Direct Method,” in IUTAM Symposium, Instability of Continuous Systems (H. Leipholz, ed.), Springer-Verlag, Herrenalb, Germany, pp. 112–118.
- [18] BHATTACHARYA, K. and R. D. JAMES (1999) “A Theory of Thin Films of Martensitic Materials with Applications to Microactuators,” Journal of the Mechanics and Physics of Solids, 47, pp. 531–576.
- [19] RIMROTT, F. P. J. and F. JANABI-SHARIFI (1992) “A Torque-Free Flexible Model Gyro,” Journal of Applied Mechanics, 59, pp. 7–15.
- [20] MÜLLER-PFEIFFER, S., H. VAN KRANENBURG, and J. C. LODDER (1992) “A Two-Dimensional Monte Carlo Model for Thin Growth by Oblique Evaporation: Simulation of Two-Component Systems for the Example of Co-Cr,” Thin Solid Films, 213, pp. 143–153.
- [21] HASHIN, Z. and S. SHTRIKMAN (1963) “A Variational Approach to the Theory of the Elastic Behaviour of Multiphase Materials,” Journal of the Mechanics and Physics of Solids, 11, pp. 127–140.

- [22] JUNKINS, J. L. (1997) “Adventures on the Interface of Dynamics and Control,” in Aerospace Sciences Meeting, vol. 20, Reno, Nevada, pp. 1058–1071.

Vita

Your Name

The details of my childhood are inconsequential.